Woman charged with embezzling pleads not guilty

Aitken was accused of taking $69,000 from animal shelter

By Shelley Spillman News Editor

Melanie Aitken, who was charged with embezzling more than $69,000 from an animal rescue where she worked, entered a plea of not guilty on Tuesday of last week, according to court documents.

Aitken, 47, of Versailles, served as the treasurer of Home At Last Inc., a local non-profit animal rescue. She was charged with three counts of theft by unlawful taking of more than $10,000 by the Anderson County Grand Jury April 8.

The Anderson County Sheriff's Office investigation was prompted by Margie Gill, Home at Last Inc. president, who brought checking account statements that didn't seem right to her.

An Anderson County Sheriff's Office investigation of 1,500 transactions through the Home at Last Inc. checking account over the past three years revealed a total for more than $69,000 had allegedly been embezzled. Anderson County Sheriff's Office Detective Bryan Taylor said the statements revealed several seemingly personal charges for gas, grocery shopping and company checks Aitken endorsed to herself.

Aitken

The investigation further revealed that Aitken had allegedly received a debit card under the Home at Last Inc. checking account and funneled funds to her PayPal and eBay account.

Woodford County Circuit Court indictment obtained by The Anderson News showed that Aitken had been indicted in July 2002 for theft by unlawful taking in the amount of around $14, 561.90 from Two Chicks and Company, a previous employer.

Aitken will appear in the Anderson County Circuit Court July 22 at 9 a.m. for a disposition or trial date certain with a negotiated plea date with the Commonwealth prior to that date.

Anderson County High School students and staff join in a round of applause to celebrate Kristina Lange, left, and Max Scott being crowned prom king and queen.

ACHS students honor special needs students as prom king and queen

By Shelley Spillman News Editor

The Anderson County High School gymnasium, filled with more than 400 students and 20 chaperones, fell silent for the prom king and queen nomination announcement. The suspense in the room was palpable.

When Kristina Lange and Max Scott's names were called, the room erupted in shouts and applause.

It was a magical moment but even more so because Lange and Scott are special needs students and, most likely, the first special needs prom king and queen the high school has ever nominated.

"It was like a utopia, one short, perfect moment. It was the most defining moment in my career as a teacher," said Heather Adams, a Family and Consumer Science teacher and chaperone.

Adams said it was a perfect moment and she wished she could have locked the doors and kept the outside world out to preserve it forever. She said there are no two students more deserving of prom king and queen than Lange and Scott, who are kind and loving to every student.

Being crowned prom king and queen was a high point in an uphill battle for Lange and Scott. "Wow" was the only word both students had to describe their feelings.

While the ACHS students know Lange as prom queen, Lange's mother, Patricia, has another name for her - "miracle child."

Patricia Lange, whose daughter has autism, attention deficient disorder and slew of health problems, said Kristina wasn't supposed to make it past her first year of life.

She has had 13 major surgeries. One surgery was to reconstruct her ear canal at 4 years old to help her hear and communicate. Prior to that, Kristina communicated by sign language. Until 2 years ago, she ate through a feeding tube.

She has 18 specialists she visits to help with a variety of things from speech therapy to a renal specialist to make sure her kidneys are working properly every 2 months.

In 2007, Patricia Lange moved her family from California to Lawrenceburg, a decision that she said she is glad she made.

"The amazing thing is this wouldn't have happened in California," Patricia Lange said. "The kids are wonderful here."

Patricia Lange said she knows her tiny 4-foot, 5-inch daughter isn't like most teens. She said Kristina will probably never be able to drive a car, she has to repeat things thousands of time to learn something new and things that come easy to most, such as a two-way conversation with a friend, isn't easy for Kristina.

BUS CRASH ON U.S. 127

Anderson County Sheriff's Office, Lawrenceburg Police Department, Kentucky State Police and Anderson County EMS responded to a school bus crash on U.S. 127 near Carlton Drive at around 11:05 a.m. Tuesday. There were two students, a chaperone and a driver on the bus. No one was injured, according to Anderson County Schools Superintendent Sheila Mitchell. The bus was going through its normal preschool route for pickup when, Mitchell said, she thinks a semi-truck was unable to stop and decided to pass the bus but made contact with it while trying to go around it.

She was charged with perjury

Carolyn Case accepts plea deal

By Shelley Spillman News Editor

Carolyn Case, the woman charged with tying up her 3-year-old granddaughter, recently accepted a Commonwealth of Kentucky Court of Justice offer for a plea of guilty to first-degree perjury.

According to court documents, Case, of 1024 Terri Lane, who was sentenced to 5 years prison without probation in February for tying up her 3-year-old granddaughter, signed a plea agreement Tuesday of last week for a separate perjury charge.

The plea agreement requires Case to serve a 1-year prison sentence to run consecutive to her 5-year prison sentence in the child tying case.

Case was indicted for one count of first-degree perjury in February by the Anderson County Circuit Court for allegedly falsifying her financial status to obtain a public defender in the child tying case, according to court documents.

Shortly after being arrested in September 2013, she claimed she did not own real estate, according to court documents.

Real estate documents showed Case had been the owner of her residence at Terri Lane since her husband passed away in April 2009.

Case will appear in Anderson County Circuit Court July 8 at 9 a.m. for sentencing.

Soon, cars will drive themselves... no, really they will

Okay, I'll admit I'm an '80s kid. I grew with movies such as "Robocop" and "Total Recall."

Do you remember in the movie "Total Recall," where there was an automated taxi driver called "Johnny Cab" that would have entire conversations with Arnold Schwarzenegger's character?

Well, that glimpse of the future might be on point now with the new Google driverless car.

The Google driverless car is a real thing and it's currently reached more than 700,000 miles without any citation, according to Mountain View Police Department in Calif., where the vehicle has undergone test runs.

There's actually some really neat technology that went into making this modified Toyota Prius.

The software program powering the car is called Google Chauffeur. Engineer Sebastian Thrun, who is also the co-inventor of Google Street View, led the Google driverless car.

According to USA Today, the car is equipped with about $150,000 in equipment, including a $70,000 LIDAR laser radar system that acts as the car's eyes giving it a 3D view of what going on around it.

This also means that currently the car will be way too expensive for consumer purchase.

By the information available at the moment, the Google driverless car seems very safe.

Logging 700,000 without any incident is a big deal. That is especially noteworthy since most cars these days last roughly around 200,000 miles.

Safety could be a nice perk of the Google driverless car. According to the National Traffic Safety Administration, there were 33,561 highway deaths in 2012 alone, a 1,082 increase in fatalities from 2011.

There's also a possible negative side, too. If there are no driving citations, law enforcement budgets could take a massive hit.

According to U.S. Highway Patrol statistics, each year, around 41 million people get ticketed, bringing in more than $6.2 billion each year.

Losing that revenue because of no more tickets would be crippling.

There's also the issue of when there is a citation, who pays the ticket? How do you hold a driving program accountable for unsafe driving?

This brings up a whole sticky legal argument of the word "driver."

Does it mean the human passenger in the car or is it Google who created the Google Chauffeur program?

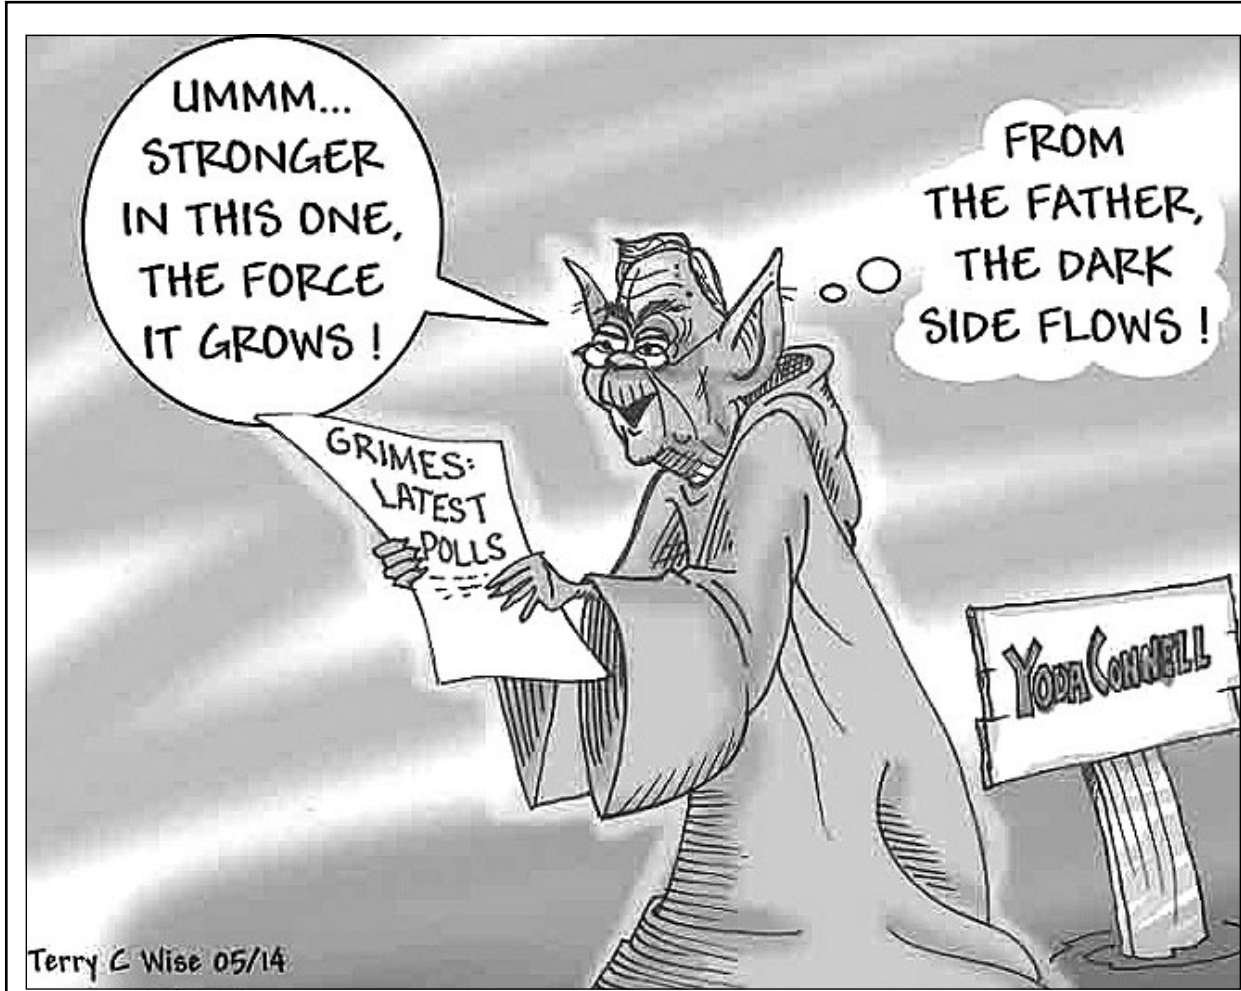

Frankly, since the Google driverless car is so expensive, I can't see it being so widespread that it becomes the primary mode of transportation on the road.

I could possibly see it being used as a taxi in the California area that would eventually spread to other areas worldwide.

With the invention of the driverless car and the Samsung Galaxy Gear Smart Watch, which is just like the phone watch the cartoon character Inspector Gadget always used to communicate with his niece Penny, I'm anxious to see what other futuristic inventions from my childhood will come to life.

Looking to add vegetables to your meals

Try this Thai Peanut Chicken and Noodles recipe

I received several calls in response to my recent column about depression.

There aren't any classes scheduled now but I am available to speak to your group. I think it's more effective to meet with small groups (8-12 people) that usually know each other instead of larger groups.

Call the Anderson County Extension Office at 502.839.7271 to schedule a program on one or more aspects of depression or contact me at joan.martin@uky.edu.

The focus of the educational program is to help participants provide support for individuals who experience depression and encourage treatment.

Remember that depression can be fatal but about 85 percent of people who seek treatment will respond positively.

This week, the column features an easy recipe for Thai Peanut Chicken. It's a great way add more vegetables to your meals.

The chicken can be deleted for a vegetarian meal.

Two ingredients are essential for the Thai flavor - fresh gingerroot and red pepper flakes. However, if you don't like hot food, either decrease the red pepper flakes to a pinch or scant 1/8 teaspoon or delete them altogether.

Thai Peanut Chicken and Noodles

Makes five 1 1/2-cup servings.

Hint - use a very large 12-inch skillet or a large saucepan.

1/4 cup creamy peanut butter.

3/4 teaspoon finely chopped gingerroot (buy a very small piece - about 1/2 inch).

1/4 teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes (you might find a packet in the take-out pizza box).

Joan Martin
Columnist

1/4 cup soy sauce, divided.

1/4 cup water.

16 oz. frozen package stir-fry vegetables (I prefer mixture of broccoli florets, red pepper, mushrooms and carrots but you can use any mixture.)

1 large can (about 12 oz.) canned chicken OR 1 cup chopped cooked chicken (use leftover rotisserie chicken).

1 tablespoon vegetable oil such as canola, safflower or olive oil.

2 packages (3 oz. each) ramen noodles (any flavor - throw away the flavor packets).

1/4 cup coarsely chopped dry-roasted peanuts.

In a small bowl (at least 2 cup size) stir together peanut butter, gingerroot, pepper flakes and 2 tablespoons of the soy sauce with whisk until blended.

Gradually beat in remaining 2 tablespoons soy sauce and the water until smooth.

Set aside. Sauce will be thin.

Drain canned chicken and pat dry. In 12-inch skillet or large saucepan, heat oil over medium high heat. Lightly brown chicken, remove chicken from skillet and cover with foil to keep warm.

Cook and drain ramen noodles as directed on package but don't add flavor packets. Discard flavor packets. Keep noodles warm.

Add frozen stir fry vegetables to skillet and cook for 4 to 6 minutes, stirring occasionally, until crisp-tender. Reduce heat to medium.

Stir the peanut butter sauce and stir into mixture in skillet. Return chicken to skillet. Stir in noodles until coated.

Cook and stir until hot. Sprinkle with chopped peanuts.

State can't break out of economic doldrums without fixing tax system

By Lexington Herald Leader

This is an election year in a poor state, 5 years into a slow recovery from a devastating recession. No wonder everyone is talking about jobs. Political talk about jobs is often just that - talk. But recent economic reports offer insight that candidates and officeholders should heed.

One says that places with an educated, trained work force not only attract more and better jobs - no surprise there - but also that they recover more quickly from economic shocks.

The other report shows that Kentucky has been slower than the rest of the nation to emerge from the recession, producing fewer and less desirable jobs than most other states.

But the truly bad news is that unless policy makers are willing to do the hard work of tax reform, this downward cycle will not change.

Gov. Steve Beshear offered a tax reform package - based on the work of a task force led by Lt. Gov. Jerry Abramson - to the General Assembly this year that went nowhere. There is a profound unwillingness among lawmakers to accept short-term personal political pain for collective long-term economic gain.

Beshear, in his second term with no plans to run for another public office, can take the message to voters, and those they elect, that tax reform is an essential first step in any serious, long-term jobs plan.

Senate Pres. Robert Stivers, R-Manchester, and Speaker of the House Greg Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, should also work with their chambers and their caucuses to get this done.

Kentucky's tax code gives away more revenue in loopholes than is collected, and captures virtually nothing from the rapidly growing service sector of the economy.

With this scenario, it's inevitable that General Assemblies will continue to cut education at every level, further undermining Kentucky's work force preparedness.

The economic reports mentioned earlier make this clear.

Sue Lou Smith takes music students to new levels

My son is a junior at Anderson County High School and has been very actively involved in the Advanced Choir, Men's Choir, All-State Choir and has had starring roles in the spring musicals for the past 3 years. He has achieved all of this due to a teacher at the high school.

I would like to say a few words about Mrs. Sue Lou

Smith, the choir director and musical director.

She is a wonderful teacher and a great mentor to these students. She treats them like they are her own children and they see her as their mom in school. Mrs. Smith has taken numerous students to the All-State level, this year being the most yet. They have won numerous awards, always placing at the Distinguished Level at nearly every competition. She can take a very novice student and turn them into a world-class singer and performer.

While they were performing Oklahoma, her mother passed away. The show has to go on and she continued to play the music throughout the show, stopping for the wake after one Sunday night performance. The biggest majority of her students showed up for the visitation because they have so much respect for her.

I could go on and on about her but you would be better served if you interviewed her students yourself, perhaps coming to the school one day and watching the class and the practices. I'm sure her students would love to tell you all about what they achieve because of her. My own son is singing in a lot of different avenues now due to her teaching, as him and several other students will be performing in Harrodsburg in the Sound of Music.

Many of her students, I would honestly say, perhaps close to all of her students get scholarships in music and drama.

We are having our spring concert on May 29 at 6:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium. They will also be receiving recognition for all they have accomplished this year. The concert is free to the public.

There's a secret to a bountiful garden

By Melinda Myers

Spring is here and the garden centers are filled with beautiful plants.

Many of us are making our way to one or more of our favorite garden shops. We leave with a car full of beautiful flowers and healthy vegetables with hopes of a bountiful harvest.

But before that first plant goes into the ground, make sure your soil is properly prepared. Though not the most glamorous part of gardening, it is the first and most important step in creating a beautiful and productive garden.

Start by adding some compost, aged manure or a garden soil labeled for flowers and vegetables to this year's shopping list.

You'll need about two 2-cubic-foot bags of soil additive to cover 25 square feet of garden 2 inches deep.

Calculate your garden size by measuring the length times the width, so you are sure to purchase all you need.

Once the car is unloaded, the fun begins.

Work the soil when it is moist, but not wet. A simple test can help with this.

Grab a handful of soil and gently squeeze. Then gently tap it with your finger. If it breaks into smaller pieces, it is ready to work. If it stays in a wet ball, wait for the soil to dry slightly before digging in.

Otherwise you will compact the soil, reduce drainage and create clods and crusty soil that you'll be fighting all season long. Start by digging several inches of compost, aged manure or a product such as Schultz garden soil for flowers and vegetables into the top 12 inches of soil.

These materials improve drainage in heavy clay soils and increase water-holding ability in sandy soils.

Spread the organic matter over the soil surface of the garden bed. Use a shovel or rototiller to blend the organic matter into the soil.

Rake the area smooth and level or make a slight crown in the middle of the bed. Crowning the bed slightly can increase visual impact of flowers and can help keep soil in the bed and out of the surrounding lawn or mulch.

Don't skip this step even if you applied these materials last year. Yearly applications of organic matter continue to build quality soil and improve your gardening results.

Apply the type and amount of fertilizer recommended by your soil test report. If this information is not available, use about 3 pounds of a low nitrogen slow release fertilizer for every 100 square feet of garden.

Check the back of your fertilizer bag for more details.

Once the soil is prepared, it is time to plant.

Carefully slide your transplants out of their container. Gently loosen any circling roots.

Plant flowers and vegetables in the prepared planting bed then water thoroughly.

Mulch the soil surface with a 1- to 2-inch layer of pine straw, evergreen needles, shredded leaves or other organic material. These help suppress weeds, conserve moisture and improve the soil as they decompose.

Seem like too much work?

Investing time preparing the soil at the start of the season will save you time throughout the season.

Livestock fly control guide can help

Altosid (methoprene) and Rabon (tetrachlorvinphos) are insecticides that are available as minerals or feed supplements for beef and dairy cattle fly control.

These oral larvicides are consumed and pass through the animal's manure at concentrations that kill fly maggots. With this approach, the only sources of horn flies and face flies in pastures are treated.

There are some important things to keep in mind when using this approach.

The target pasture flies

Horn flies and face flies are key pests of cattle in Kentucky. They torment herds every year and often are present in damaging numbers: more than 200 horn flies per head and more than 10 face flies.

Altosid products are labeled for horn fly control.

Rabon larvicides are labeled for both horn flies and face flies.

Supplemental fly control measures might be needed, depending upon fly pressure.

How the products work and why it's important

Altosid is an insect growth regulator (IGR). It interferes with normal development of horn fly maggots, preventing them from emerging as adults.

Rabon, a Group 1 insecticide, attacks the maggot's nervous system so that it dies before completing development.

Knowing that these products work differently is important when planning an insecticide resistance management program for horn flies.

Altosid IGR only affects the larval stages of insects so it is not included in insecticide ear tags, pour-ons, or sprays that control adults.

However, the organophosphate insecticide Rabon is effective against both maggots and adults.

It and other Group 1 insecticides are available in some brands of insecticide ear tags and fly sprays. This must be considered so a total herd fly control program is not based on products from a single insecticide group.

Rotation among insecticides that attack pests in different ways is part of resistance management.

How important is dose

All animals in the herd must eat the minimum daily amount of larvicide specified on the label. This ensures that a lethal concentration of insecticide is always present in all manure.

It means keeping up with consumption and taking steps to increase or decrease it as needed. This can be done by relocating feeders to increase or decrease availability.

Over-consumption increases control costs unnecessarily.

Under-consumption can mean reduced fly control.

Can I tell if it's working

The best way is to keep a record of average fly numbers per head

Tommy Yankey
Columnist

and compare the numbers with what is considered acceptable levels of flies.

Write down a weekly count of horn flies and face flies per 10 randomly-picked animals in each herd.

Face fly counts are straightforward but horn fly counts usually have to be estimates. Ten or fewer face flies per head is generally considered to be satisfactory control. Horn fly numbers should be less than 100 per side.

Counts on your cattle might be above the target values even if the oral larvicide is doing its job.

Flies can move in from nearby herds (within 3 to 5 miles) where fly control is not practiced or is insufficient. In these cases, supplement fly control with dust bags, oilers or some other means.

Conditions increase effectiveness of oral larvicides

The faster manure piles dry, the sooner they become less suitable for fly breeding. Extra rain can allow the development of greater fly numbers.

The better the fly control is on nearby herds, the less pressure you will have from flies moving into your herd.

Start early. Consumption of oral larvicides should begin before the flies appear so that the only fresh manure available is treated.

Oral larvicides are a tool for pasture fly control. Success depends on careful monitoring of consumption and keeping track of fly numbers to assess the need for extra control measures.

of the strongest employment gains during the recovery."

Perhaps even more disturbing for all of Kentucky is where our jobs have been created in the last 4 years, according to Coomes' analysis. The leader by far is "employment services," more commonly known as temp agencies. Coomes' list also includes government and auto manufacturing — sectors that generally provide living wages and benefits — but is rounded out with sectors like food service and nursing homes.

Any job is a lifeline to someone without one. But too many of Kentucky's jobs leave people treading water, getting nowhere. And that's the way it will be as long as Kentucky's leaders avoid setting our tax structure on a course that will sustain adequate work-force training and education.

It isn't news that education drives employment but the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, whose district includes Kentucky from Lexington eastward, documented that education also plays a role in how rapidly an area emerges from a recession.

Louisville economist Paul Coomes, in a study for the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, found our state has been slower than the nation to emerge from the recession.

But that slow recovery hasn't been universal. The Cleveland Fed observed: "Places like Lexington... which have high shares of adults with bachelor's degree, have also seen some

Anderson County High School grads bequeath lots in senior wills

Successors get a right knee, blocked calls, abilities and more

I, Marissa Barnes, being of witty mind and short body do will and bequeath the following: to my larger counterparts, the ability to be tiny and weave through the crowded halls, to those who hate math, my love of it, and to AC teachers and staff, my love and respect for teaching and caring for us the last 12 years.

I, William Michael Birkicht, being of dull mind and sexy body, do will and bequeath the following: to Taylor Logsdon, my right knee, to Cody Dillow, my steady hands, to Gary Anderson, my concussions, to Seth Way, my stupid jokes, to Dillon Harrod, my body (minus my knee), to Ethan Woodrow, Ale-8, to Isaac Mason, my decision skills, and Cooknasty and Daniel Peach, my lacrosse skills.

I, Aimee Bransom, being of scattered mind and over-worked body, do will and bequeath the following: to Ally Hayes, my straight A average, parking spot and calculator, to remaining students of ACHS, the ability to stay sane and calm.

I, Jacob Brumley, being of sound mind and body, do will and bequeath the following: to Elizabeth Jones, my awesome-ly decorated locker and any notes you need, to Blake Borwig, my cuteness (keep adding to my list), to Chris Beasmore, the song "What Does the Fox Say" and to Charles, Council, a packet of gum, anything strange from Amazon.com and nothing special.

I, Molly Kate Burkhead, being of outspoken mind and agile body, do will and bequeath the following: to ACHS softball team, a winning softball season next year, to Kaci Currens, my hairspray and hair bows, to Chelsea Vanhoose, my long, random rants, to Bailey Read Curry, my argumentative nature, to Missa Walker and Trista Craigmyle, my speed and to my friends I leave behind, the good memories as a Bearcat.

I, Max Crabtree, being of superior mind and chiseled body, do will and bequeath the following: to Wesley Jorette, my abs, to Daniel Whalen, my height, to Josh Brown, Gaddie and my hitters, "that's what Eminence does!" and to Brice Stockton, church ball.

I, Amber Denhart, being of absent mind and sleepy body, do will and bequeath the following: to my cat, Mikeal, my bed, to my cat, Biskit, my socks and to my other cats, the rest of my room.

I, Cody Dillow, being of awesome mind and body, do will and bequeath the following: to Mrs. Bragg, my debt for always letting me in the door.

I, Lauren Fowler, being of distinguished mind and young body, do will and bequeath the following: to Daushe, football games, golf cart rides, blocked calls, and no food, to Amy Kate, chorus folder #2, to Lindsey, my heart and to Claire and Drew, all my luck in your remaining years at ACHS, to incoming seniors, lots of brains, beauty and school spirit. You will need it to live up to the class of 2014!

I, Brian Franklin, being of sound mind and able body, do will and bequeath the following: to Tyger Gilkin-son, the ability to think or not to think...that is the ques-tion, about "the game"...or is that the answer... and to Tori Estrada (Spartacus), the abil-ity to procrastinate and be lazy because ice cream is the answer to life and everything in it.

I, Kaitlyn Gootee, being of enthusiastic mind and never-resting body, do will and bequeath the following: to Alexis Gootee, my locker, which is perfect distance between most classes, piles of future homework (a.k.a. "All-Nighters"...have fun), the abil-ity to stop forgetting things at home in the morning and whatever is left of my motivation to do actual work.

Don't preach what marriage isn't, model what it is supposed to be

Ideas are not formed in a vacuum. Every book we read, every song we hear, every thought we think has been influenced by someone else. For example, a parent's influence on their children has been formed by how they themselves were raised, which itself was a product of their own parent's upbringing. Conversely, young people looking for a sense of belonging often will adopt the style and values of their peers rather than their parents, especially if the value system they see in their parents is not consistently, although imperfectly, lived out. The reason I mention this is because, in light of the recent actions by certain judges in striking down their states' laws protecting traditional marriage, we have an illustration how biblical standards of morality and sexual ethics are considered passé by an increasing number of Americans. The Bible Belt seems to be loosening in terms of its influence as a generation of young people seems to be distancing themselves further from the truth-claims of Christianity. The evolutionary theory that is being presented as fact in many of the public school classrooms blurs the minds of children who are forming their own views on how the world works. If we are merely products of randomness and there is no purpose or creative mind behind our existence then we are free to live as we please. Morality is grounded in truth and, if truth is not absolute, then morality can be defined as anything by anyone. The possibilities are as endless as the slope is slippery. Truth is becoming something of an accessory rather than a necessity for life. It used to be that someone with a relativistic world view might simply deny any truth, claim they disagreed with as being simply "true for you but not for me." Most were content to "live and let live." Now, however, those of us who hold to a biblically-informed sexual ethics must either capitulate our convictions or be labeled homophobic, hateful bigots. We are witnessing the dissolution of marriage in the public square. God's definition of marriage, namely that "a man shall leave his father and mother and hold fast to his wife and the two shall become one-flesh" (Genesis 2:24), is being pushed to the fringes and into the shadows. But this does not mean that marriage, or truth for that matter, is dead. And instead of being on the defense, Christians need to be on the offense. In order to combat error we need to live the truth. And this begins in the home and the local church. Instead of preaching on what marriage is not, let's teach, and model, what marriage is. Instead of telling our children what is a lie, let's hold up the standard of truth. Ideas are never formed in a vacuum. They are passed down from generation to generation. Now is not the time to panic but to have confidence in the life-changing Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ to continue to change hearts and lives.

YOU CAN COME HERE, WE DON'T CARE

Recently a local church in this general area had one of its members say, "You can come and worship with us because we never discipline anyone." What that person actually was saying, we don't care what you do (sin) you can come here and we will not make you feel guilty, we will overlook your lost condition. Like a preacher said in Texas, "We don't care where you have been."

The duty of disciplining a sinful Christian lies with the local church that has had that one in fellowship. Paul wrote to the Corinthians (1 Cor. 5:4-11) and the Thessalonians (2 Thess. 3:6) and instructed (commanded) them what to do with a sinful member and why they needed to do it. Discipline is never easy in any area but if we love as God loves we will do as God says.

The purpose of church discipline is simple:

1. To save the guilty from sin – 1 Cor. 5:5; James 5:20
2. Purge ungodly leaven – 1 Cor. 5:6, 13; Eph. 5:25-27
3. Promote godly fear and respect the truth – 1 Thess. 5:20; Acts 5:11
4. Because God COMMANDED IT – 1 Cor. 5:5; 2 Thess. 3:6-15; James 5:19-20; Matt. 18:15-17; Rom. 16:17-20; Gal. 6:1; 1 Thess. 5:12-15

Seems to me that one ought to listen to the direction that comes from God!

Beaver Lake dedicated, stocked with 133,000 bluegill

50 YEARS AGO

Thursday, May 21, 1964

Anderson High royalty

Beaver Lake dedicated

Several hundred people attended the official dedication of the new 160-acre Beaver Lake on U.S. 62, west of Lawrenceburg. Ed Grace, president of the Anderson County Sportsman's Club, was the master of ceremonies. The lake was stocked with 133,000 bluegill and J.T. Cox was specially preparing 13,160 bass to go in the lake.

It was about 50 years before that a group of men having a cookout discussed the possibility of a lake in this location. Allen Wash contributed more time and property than any other single person to see the lake built.

Sherley Scott described her son as a social teen. She said he's known for freely dispensing hugs.

"We can't go anywhere without someone knowing him," she said. "Everybody loves Max. The students accept him for who he is."

Max has been in school with many of his classmates since kindergarten and developed close friendships. She said the students are very protective of him and a group of boys will look out for him during field trips.

Max was born with a few health issues including a clubfoot and feeding difficulties. Sherley Scott said Max survived on special formula and PediaSure.

"He didn't eat real food until the age of four," Sherley Scott said. "I was worried about him."

She said Max primarily has a speech disability but also suffers from Cornelia de Lange Syndrome, which makes it difficult for him to see and causes sensitivity to light. She said he often wears a cap because of the issues with his eyes.

Sherley Scott said she isn't sure what her son will do when he graduates but he might become an entomologist because of his interest in insects.

Sherley Scott said Max will work with a job coach to help polish his job interview skills.

Sherley Scott and Patricia Lange said they are both proud of their children and think they are an inspiration.

"My goal is the same as every parent's goal for their children - to be well-rounded, independent and able to look out for themselves," said Sherley Scott.

Football lesson still guides me more than 40 years later

I hope I never got Bobby Hyatt in trouble. If you've been in the Lawrenceburg Walmart in the past few years, chances are you knew Mr. Hyatt from that perch just inside the right-side door. "Hello!" "How you doing today?"

John Herndon
Sports Editor

Or it might be one of a thousand other greetings. Regardless of the words, they were always accompanied by a huge smile. For me however, the topic was usually football. It might have been what was wrong with the Kentucky Wildcats or what was right with the Anderson County Bearcats. And there were times those conversations made their way to the Indians of Montgomery County High School where one of Mr. Hyatt's grandchildren played. In recent years, whatever sport one of Bobby's grandchildren was playing at the time was often the topic of the day when I entered Walmart.

But usually, we just talked football. Lots of football. That's because Bobby Hyatt was my coach. And, brother, we were good. We aren't talking high school football. We're talking about that first taste of being part of a team, the youth leagues. Back in the late '60s, Anderson County's youth football teams were sponsored by various civic clubs. Somehow, I ended up on the Lions' Club team. My first year, Mr. Hyatt's brother, Eddie Earl, was my coach. The next three, the guys on the sideline were Bobby Hyatt, Darrell Lewis, and my neighbor, Tommy Cotton.

Three out of those four years, our team went undefeated. Two of them, no one scored against us. And, I still like to think it was no coincidence that many of the players on those teams played key roles in Anderson County's first district championship team in 1972. You just remember things like that. And you also remember great coaches, like Bobby Hyatt, who instilled that expectation of success even at a young age. He was usually smiling, but that time my holding penalty cost us a touchdown, Mr. Hyatt let me know in no uncertain terms his feelings about my miscue. But when I scored the only touchdown of my football career - I intercepted a pass and returned it about five yards - one of the first ones to greet me with a smile on the sideline was the same one who greeted me the same way at Walmart more than 40 years later.

Over the last few years, Mr. Hyatt loved seeing my daughter with me so he could tell her stories about that ornery 11-year-old lineman. He'd talk, then break out in that distinctive laugh that we came to know. When I told my daughter that Mr. Hyatt lost his battle with cancer last week, she didn't remember the stories, but she knew the man who'd greeted us at Walmart in the years following his retirement from a successful insurance business. Who, around Lawrenceburg at least, wouldn't know him? High school coaches like to say sports teach life lessons, which is true. Those lessons are often summarized in the value of hard work and being part of a team. But the sports lesson of self-confidence has stayed with me longer than any came from those days when I was a lineman for the Lawrenceburg Lions Club team. It came one afternoon in a practice on the field behind what is now Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg. One of our running backs was going through the motions, and Mr. Hyatt stopped practice, and with that broad smile said, "You had better get with it or somebody like Johnny Herndon will lower the boom on you."

I never told Bobby Hyatt how his confidence in a slow-moving defensive tackle has stuck with me all these years. I should have. Thanks, Mr. Hyatt. I will always remember you.

Bearcats advance to semifinal

Anderson baseball wins big in varsity regional

Tepid pitching is offset by sound defense and base running

Just call them the "Battlin' and Blazin' Bearcats."

Anderson County pitchers Conor Cotton and Josh Brown fought their way through a day when they did not have their best stuff while Bearcat runners repeatedly frustrated South Oldham to score a 7-3 win in the Eighth Region high school varsity baseball tournament Monday at Henry County High School in New Castle.

"Neither one of them were very sharp, that is for sure," said Anderson cCoach L.W. Barnes. "I really don't know what to say about them but they kept their composure when they needed to."

Both battled through jams to lead Anderson to its fifth regional semifinal berth in seven years.

"I wasn't throwing my best game at all," said Cotton, a senior.

However, the tone was set in the top of the first when Cotton, Anderson's leadoff hitter, reached on an error then, after Dusty Puckett sacrificed courtesy runner John Paul Garmon to second, Brandon Eliadis ripped a double to drive in Garmon and give the Bearcats the lead they never relinquished.

Cotton, who went five innings for the win, got out of a bases-loaded, one-out jam in the bottom of the inning, striking out five-spot hitter Drew Ellis and inducing Noah Frantz into a groundout.

"That was huge," Cotton said. "If they had gotten those runs, it would have been different. I have to thank my defense for coming through."

Barnes agreed.

"We were very lucky to get out of that first inning with nothing," he said. "Then the next inning was just as big when we got a double play to get out of the inning."

Offensively, Anderson simply took the fight to South Oldham the rest of the way, stealing five bases and forcing the Dragons into four errors. In the top of the second, the Bearcats plated two runs with the help of a pair of stolen bases and a passed ball by South catcher Tyler Fitch. Josh Brown scored on the miscue before Mason Baker crossed the plate on Cotton's infield hit.

"We knew (Barnes) was going to use our speed today," said Brown who

Senior Yett falls short of state track and field crowns

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

It had been only a few moments since Tyson Yett's had completed his day's work when his grimace told what kind of day it had been.

It had been painfully close.

And it had been simply painful.

Yett, an Anderson County High School senior, placed second in the triple jump, his signature event, and third in the high jump at the Kentucky High School Athletic Association Class 3A varsity state meet Saturday at the University of Kentucky in Lexington.

Yett's triple jump effort of 44-10.75 turned out to be a foot short of the state champ, Bowling Green's Robbie Lofton, but it is believed to be the highest state finish for any Anderson athlete since B.J. Robinson's second-place finish in the pole vault at the 2009 finals.

Yett also placed third in the high jump, topping out at 6-04.

Yett equaled his best performance in a meet but was bested by eventual champ Tequan Claitt of Bryan Station and second-place finisher Skyler Van Meter of Marshall County. Both cleared 6-06 but scratched at 6-08.

"I felt I jumped OK," Yett said a few moments after hitting the ground at the east end of the track. "I didn't jump my best."

Claitt had beaten Yett in the high jump two weeks before at the Region 6 meet but Yett's triple jump finish was more than five inches below what he had done two weeks before.

Anderson assistant coach Stephanie Moninger said Yett had a reason to grimace, beyond the hurt of coming up just short of a state championship.

"He has been having some problems with his

No nonsense for Lady Bearcats in regional opener

Currens, Curry power Anderson to semis, Moore stymies North Oldham

By John Herndon

Three batters into Monday's high school varsity Eighth Region Softball Tournament, Brent Aldridge had seen enough of the nonsense.

His heavily-favored Anderson County team, ranked among the 20 best high school teams in Kentucky, already trailed North Oldham in an elimination game at Gallatin County High School in Warsaw.

North Oldham's Hannah Phillips had doubled when her clean hit took a wicked hop over left fielder Sammy Rogers, then scored when Anna Maiocco reached on an error shortstop Corrin Robinson, who is prone to fielding miscues about as often as Eminem plays the Grand Ole Opry.

"I kind of got on them," said Aldridge. "It seemed like they needed me to yell at them to get them calmed down."

Whatever the normally mild-mannered Aldridge said, it worked.

"I just told them to play the game. I was kind of joking around with them to get them to relax," Aldridge said.

The Lady Bearcats relaxed and got out of the inning with no further damage then pounded North Oldham in the first three innings on the way to a 7-2 victory in the tournament quarter-finals.

Anderson improved to 25-8 while North Oldham finished at 15-17.

Kaci Currens capped Anderson's first inning when she turned a Sam Maiocco pitch into a towering two-run blast over the left-field fence to give Anderson a 4-1 lead. Several observers believed Currens' shot landed at least 50 feet beyond the 200-foot marker.

Tournament continues

Anderson, which was going for its first regional title since 2008, was to have played Walton-Verona, which defeated Henry County in the final first-round game Monday, after press deadlines Tuesday.

The regional championship game is scheduled for tonight, May 28, at Gallatin County.

"I just got ahold of an inside pitch," Currens said. "As soon as I hit it, I knew it was gone."

Two innings later, freshman catcher Bailey Curry matched Currens with a cannon shot over the center field fence looked like it would make the Ohio River a couple of blocks away to give Anderson a 7-1 lead.

"I just got ahold of it," she also said. "As soon as it hit the bat, I knew."

Aldridge could only smile and marvel at the long shots. "I don't believe I have ever seen two girls hit the ball as hard as they did," he said.

Curry and Currens both had two hits and two RBIs as the Lady Bearcats moved to the regional semifinals for the third consecutive year.

Anderson had gotten on the board when leadoff hitter Molly Burkhead pulled off a steal of third base just before the passed ball.

While South Oldham starter Andrew Lively, who has drawn the attention of some NCAA Division II and NAIA schools, was around the plate most of the day, the Bearcats worked him deep into the count. Lively eventually exited after five innings, giving way John Lowery, who gave up single runs in both the sixth and seventh innings.

More than 63 percent of Lively's pitches were strikes but Anderson took the count to at least three balls or two strikes 18 times.

"Our guys made him throw strikes," Barnes said, "and I think our speed did get to them a little bit."

Anderson balanced the attack through the lineup. The Bearcats stroked 10 hits with seven different batters marking the scorebook. Cotton, Eliadis and Brice Stockton all had two hits.

South got single runs back in the third, fourth and sixth innings but Anderson scored twice in the fourth to effectively put things away.

Cotton gave way to Brown going in the sixth. The junior right-hander got out of another jam aided by a spectacular catch from center fielder Wesley Jorette that extra bases away from Jared Brussell with the sacks full. While courtesy runner Starr Thompson scored from third, Jorette's grab slowed South Oldham's final serious threat.

The next batter, Braden Sisson, lined softly to Anderson first baseman Max Crabtree to end the threat.

"We made the plays when we needed to," Barnes said. "I was very pleased with how the kids came through."

right knee," she said. "It was kind of like runner's knee or tendinitis. He had kind of backed off his training a lot. After all the jumping he did (Saturday), it flared up again."

Moninger led the team even though Head Coach Keith Brown was at the meet. Brown, who is also a certified official, worked most of the day checking athletes in for the KHSAA. He saw only a few of the 10 events in which Anderson competitors were entered.

For the triple jump, competitors get three chances. Lofton's win was convincing but Yett did win the tie-breaker for second place when his next best jump, 44-09.25, was more than 2 inches better than third-place finisher Shaquan Nicholas of Christian County.

"He was a little disappointed," Moninger said. "Coming in second and third in the state is extremely good."

While Yett was Anderson's top performer, scoring all of the Anderson boys' 13.5 points, good enough for 14th place at the state, Lady Bearcat Alorra Sims also earned a medal with her third-place finish in the triple jump.

Sims finished at an even 35 feet, or 7.5 inches short of the winner, Maryssa Stewart of Madison Central.

her fist on the awards stand and was already thinking about the future.

"I felt pretty good," Sims said. "My jumps kept getting better throughout the night."

Like Yett, Sims had to overcome some physical problems - shin splints and a stress fracture in recent months - and withdrew from the 100-meter hurdles, for which she had qualified.

Barring any major health concerns, Sims will likely be one of the favorites for a state championship in 2015.

Even though Anderson had only two medalists, there were many smiles in the Bearcat camp. It was, after all, a respectable showing from a program that practices on a dilapidated track and has had little coaching stability in recent years.

Seven different Anderson athletes and a relay team qualified for the state meet. To the powers, those numbers would be considered pedestrian. To Anderson, however, they were an indicator that things are looking up.

"We felt real good about ourselves not really knowing what to expect," said Brown, who had missed one meet this year because of some health issues. "Not too many of these kids had ever been to the state championship. They came over here and competed their hearts out."

That had been the case throughout the meet as Sims eclipsed Angie Champion's school record in the 300-meter hurdles and Connor Duncan did the same to Chris Russell's record in the boys' version of Veteran coach Keith Brown says he intends to return as coach of the Anderson County High School track team in 2015.

Brown, who had coached powerful teams at Harrodsburg and Lafayette high schools, took over the program last fall. It was the fifth consecutive year that the Bearcats had a different person at the helm.

Brown, who also serves as an assistant football coach for the school, seemed thrilled with his team's finish at the state meet Saturday.

"I am planning on being here as long as Anderson County will keep me around," Brown said smiling.

was hit by a pitch and eventually came home on Curry's first-inning double. Robinson singled, went to third on Curry's double then scored on a wild pitch.

Curry blasted her home-run with one out in the third. Later in the inning, Autumn Beasley and Missa Walker both delivered run-scoring singles.

For three innings, Anderson resembled the well-oiled machine it had displayed at times through the season. For some reason, though, the Lady Bearcats sputtered offensively from that point on.

"We weren't all totally into it," Currens said.

Aldridge agreed. "You could tell that by some of the swings we were taking," she said.

As for the outcome of Monday's win, it really didn't matter. Allyson Moore, making her first start in the pitching circle in several weeks, scattered seven hits to pick up the complete game win. Moore had been nursing an injury but came on in relief in the district championship game three days before. Monday, she struck out seven and walked none.

"We kind of struggled," Aldridge said. "It looked like we had a little bit of nerves. Hopefully, it was just the first game and we were going to get the nerves out."

State tournament begins next week

The Worth/KHSAA Fast-Pitch Softball State Tournament is scheduled to get underway June 5 at Jack Fischer Park in Owensboro.

The 8th Region champion will play the 15th Region titlist in the first round with game time set for 6 p.m. EDT.

The tournament was well-attended by youth and adult chaperones with 15 to 20 folks wetting their lines in search of one of the big catfish Brother Junie had stocked a year ago.

Bluegill seemed to be the most popular fish biting with several being hauled in. Some of the smaller ones we cut up or used whole to try and catch the bigger catfish we knew were lurking in the depths somewhere.

Will Temple caught the biggest fish of the day with a nice 29-inch, six-pound catfish. He was awarded a nice rod and reel as his prize.

Toward the end of the tournament, Norris Burkhead hooked and was able to slowly bring in a big snapping turtle. The turtle was snatched out of the shallow water next to the bank by its tail by Justin Goodlett and as of this writing has probably been eating.

After the tournament, we all headed up the hill and down the road to Karen and Brian Temple's home for a cookout complete with grilled hot dogs and chips and brownies for dessert. Football and basketball was also on the agenda as was a huge dose

Three outs. It's one of the most basic of all baseball rules. Get three outs, then take a turn at bat.

Give up extra outs and pay the consequences.

It really is that simple.

Host Anderson County learned the lesson the hard way in the championship game of the 30th District high school baseball tournament Tuesday of last week.

Collins took advantage of four Bearcat errors and another uncharged miscue to defeat the Bearcats, 7-3, at Barnes Memorial Field. It was the Titans' second consecutive district crown.

"We were our worst enemy," said Anderson coach L.W. Barnes. "We get great pitching from Josh Brown. He competed as well as he has all year."

Brown took the loss despite giving up just six hits. Five of Collins' seven runs were officially scored as earned, but for all practical purposes, all should have been unearned.

Trailing 3-2 with one out and one on in the sixth, Collins' got a reprieve when Anderson only got a force out at second out of what looked like a tailor-made double play ball. Officially, the play was scored as a simple fielder's choice. But the bobble allowed Collins to keep batting.

Given a second chance, Collins, ranked No. 5 in the state, made the most of it to ruin an otherwise stellar pitching performance from Anderson junior Josh Brown.

After giving up two hits through five innings, Brown suddenly could get no one out following the missed double play, walking nine-hitter Alex Doyle, then giving up a single to Dre Farris that tied things at 3.

On the very next pitch, E.J. Burk turned Brown's pitch into a 3-run home run over the right field fence. Collins' Zac Wiley followed by putting one into orbit over into left field. It was all Collins needed.

"They made us pay," Barnes said. "This has happened to us all year. In about nine of our losses, we have done the same thing, just boot routine balls. It just killed us."

Anderson appeared to have broken through against Wiley, a Bellarmine University signee who had limited the Bearcats to five hits in a 14-3 win back on May 1. In the district final, Wiley yielded only two hits, but did not seem to be as overpowering. The right-hander went to seven two-ball counts before walking Dusty Puckett and Brandon Eliadis with two out in the top of the sixth.

Anderson cleanup hitter Lucas Durr followed by ripping a Wiley fastball to center, scoring both runners and giving Anderson realistic hope of an upset.

"Lucas had a big opportunity and stepped up," Barnes said.

The Bearcats had scored in the top of the first - even though Anderson was hosting, Collins was the home team by virtue of being the tournament's top seed - when leadoff hitter Conor Cotton was hit by a pitch, then advanced on a wild pitch and stolen base before coming home on an error. It would be Anderson's only offense until Brown singled in the fifth.

Collins, however, took the lead in the fourth when Wiley walked, then scored when Anderson botched Paul Miller's sacrifice bunt. Miller wound up at third and scored on Mason Jefferies ground out.

"Our pitcher made a good pitch, they made a bad bunt but we didn't make them pay for it. ... That was a horrible play, but we recovered from that. Then we just gave it away," Barnes said.

Collins, the Eighth Region favorite, moved on to the regional tournament at 27-3. Anderson fell to 15-13.

Lady Bearcats pound Collins in tournament final

Currens drives in five, Andersons earns three-peat

By John Herndon

SHELBYVILLE - Once Anderson County got zeroed in, the numbers started coming.

The Lady Bearcats exploded for four runs in both the third and fourth innings on the way to an 11-1 win over host Collins in the 30th District Tournament championship game. The game was called after the fifth inning because of the "mercy rule."

Sophomore Kaci Currens led the Anderson attack with two hits and five RBI as the Lady Bearcats, ranked 18th in the state, improved to 24-8 and captured their third straight district title, and the fourth in five years.

Collins fell to 18-19, but still advanced to the Eighth Region Tournament

Anderson, the district's top-seeded team, exploded for four runs on just two hits in the bottom of the fourth. Currens' two-run single to center, scoring Molly Burkhead, who had been hit by a pitch, and Corrin Robinson, who had reached on an error, put Anderson up 4-1 and transformed a close game into a rout.

"Too many walks, too many hit by pitches, too many errors," Collins coach Suzanne Cates said of the third, when Anderson sent 10 batters to the plate. Collins pitchers Hannah Renfro, the starter, and Paige Oldham hit two batters and walked two in the inning.

Anderson tallied four more in the fourth, taking advantage of two more Collins errors. Missa Walker tripled, while Mia Aldridge and Alissa Vest both doubled for the Lady Bearcats, who had seemed a bit frustrated early.

"I think it was just nerves and trying to get in the flow of the game," said Anderson coach Brent Aldridge.

"We talked about sitting on good pitches and driving them," said Currens, a sophomore who had given Anderson a 2-0 lead with a first-inning single.

Collins got a run back in the top of the second when Janette Hynes beat out an infield hit, scoring Lindsey Ketcham, who had walked.

Mia Aldridge, who had thrown no-hitters in three of her last four starts, struggled with her control at times but limited Collins to two hits.

Aldridge walked three and struck out just one before giving way to fellow sophomore Allyson Moore to start the fifth inning.

"Once we started getting behind, we started swinging at (Aldridge's changeup) and it just took us out of our game," Cates said. "When you have to come from behind and they have seven or eight runs, it just changes the whole game."

Which was exactly what Anderson hoped for. "We knew the crowd would be in their favor," said Brent Aldridge. "We wanted to take the crowd out of the game and were able to do that."

Lady Cats maul Spencer

Anderson erupted for 13 runs - 12 of them unearned - on its way to a 15-0 win over Spencer County in the tournament semifinal Wednesday of last week.

Aldridge fired a three-inning no-hitter, giving up only a second-inning walk. Anderson took advantage of seven Spencer County errors while spreading the wealth themselves. Ten different Lady Bearcats were responsible for the team's 11 hits.

Four Lady Bearcats named All-Tournament

Four Anderson County players were named to the 11-player all-tournament team.

Aldridge, Currens, Vest and Walker were selected by the coaches.

STRONG(WO)MAN!

Kayla Dailey of Elizabethtown lifted successfully in the log press competition during the Beast of the Bluegrass strongman competition held at Eagle Lake Convention Center recently. Dailey was competing for the first time and took second place in the women's heavyweight novice class. Approximately 125 competitors from as far away as California converged on Lawrenceburg for the strongman and powerlifting competitions, according to event organizer Davey McCann.

STAFF REPORTER/PHOTOGRAPHER

The Spencer Magnet, located in Taylorsville, KY, is seeking a qualified candidate to fill a part-time reporter position. The Spencer Magnet is a weekly newspaper located approximately 20 miles southeast of Louisville, KY. The website is www.spencermagnet.com.

The successful applicant will be a multi-talented writer, photographer and paginator/page designer, who is dedicated to excelling at local coverage, identifying and producing enterprise stories, and contributing to special sections. Must be organized, deadline-conscious and a stickler for accuracy and fairness.

Qualifications:

- Bachelor's degree, journalism or related field preferred, or one or more year's writing experience for a weekly or multi-weekly newspaper.
- Experience with breaking news and education coverage a plus.
- Competency in photography, Photoshop, iDesign and AP style.
- Good grammar, spelling and punctuation skills.
- Ability to properly use digital camera.
- Knowledge and interest in Internet and new media.
- Ability to work some nights and weekends.
- Have reliable transportation to travel to assignments, a valid driver's license, and proof of vehicle insurance.

Essential job functions:

- Cover assigned beats and breaking news with timely stories and photos.
- Take initiative to pursue news/features/photo opportunities.
- Contribute stories and photos for special sections of the paper.
- Update the newspaper's website and social media outlets.
- Responsible for meeting strict deadlines. Maintain accurate records of mileage and expenses.
- Serve as a positive liaison with the public and represent The Spencer Magnet in a professional manner.
- Function effectively as a member of the news team.
- Must have a commitment to accuracy and fairness in covering news.
- This position reports to The Spencer Magnet publisher.

Interested persons can apply for this position by sending a resume, cover letter and sample writing to Lynette Mason, Publisher, P.O. Box 219, Taylorsville, KY 40071 or by email at lmason@spencermagnet.com

Application Deadline: June 6, 2014

HOROSCOPES

CAPRICORN
December 22–January 19

Aim high, Capricorn. There is nothing out of your reach this week. The costs of a hobby escalate. Look for ways to cut back that won't dampen the fun.

ARIES
March 21–April 19

All aboard, Aries. Joyous times are ahead. A thought-provoking movie inspires many long, interesting conversations around the dinner table.

CANCER
June 22–July 22

Take control, Cancer. You're more of a leader than you think. The exchange of gifts at a special occasion erupts in laughter. A project concludes.

LIBRA
September 23–October 22

Relax, Libra. Your idea is solid. Pay the naysayers no heed. A stellar performance at work leads to new responsibilities and possibly a promotion.

AQUARIUS
January 20–February 18

Picture it, Aquarius. A home free of chaos and clutter. It can be yours with persistence. A young friend has high hopes. Try not to dash them.

TAURUS
April 20–May 20

So much to do, so little time to do it in. Organization is the name of the game, Taurus. Gather the goods, set up a schedule and stick to it.

LEO
July 23–August 22

Financial concerns ease with more revenue and clever budgeting. One person's loss at work is another's gain. Don't look a gift horse in the mouth, Leo.

SCORPIO
October 23–November 21

Smashing, Scorpio. All of your hard work pays off in a polished presentation and applause all around. A recipe exchange inspires a cookoff.

PISCES
February 19–March 20

There is so much more to be learned. Look and listen, Pisces. A shopping trip fulfills a need without breaking the bank. Bravo! Clarity is key to a report.

GEMINI
May 21–June 21

You have so little to lose and so much to gain. Why the hesitation, Gemini? Small mishaps at home make for great chuckles at the office.

VIRGO
August 23–September 22

All work and no play make for a dull Virgo. Live a little! The solution to a persistent problem becomes clear. Run with it. A relationship evolves.

SAGITTARIUS
November 22–December 21

Tired of the runaround, Sagittarius? So is your team. It may be time for a protest. The competition grows fierce at home. Bow out while you still can.

Lawrenceburg Water & Sewer Water Quality Report for year 2013

PO. Box 290

Lawrenceburg Ky. 40342

Meetings: City Hall 100 N. Main ST.

Meeting Dates and Time: The second Monday , of month 7:00 PM

Manager: Larry Hazlett

Phone: 502-839-5372

CCR Contact: Danny Collins

This report is designed to inform the public about the quality of water and services provided on a daily basis. Our commitment is to provide our customers with a safe, clean, and reliable supply of drinking water. We want to assure that we will continue to monitor, improve, and protect the water system and deliver a high quality product. Water is the most indispensable product in every home and we ask everyone to be conservative and help us in our efforts to protect the water source and the water system.

Lawrenceburg treats surface water from the Kentucky River. The susceptibility to contamination of the raw water is moderate. However, there are a few areas of high concern. There are a number of bridges in the immediate area of the intake. Should an accidental release of contaminants occur from any of these sites it could reach the intakes. Also, an impaired stream and tributary to the Kentucky River occurs just upstream of the intake. There are other contaminant sources including everything from large capacity septic systems, to major roads and railways, to underground storage tanks. These activities, and how they are conducted, are of interest to the entire community because they potentially affect your health and cost of treating your water. A complete source water assessment can be obtained or reviewed at City Hall at the address above.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities).

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.

Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.

Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/L). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.

Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.

Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.

Variances & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.

Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Information About Lead:

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Your local public water system is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

Spanish (Español) Este informe contiene información muy importante sobre la calidad de su agua beber. Tradúzcalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

The data presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with administrative regulations in 401 KAR Chapter 8. As authorized and approved by EPA, the State has reduced monitoring requirements for certain contaminants to less often than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. Some of the data in this table, though representative, may be more than one year old. Unless otherwise noted, the report level is the highest level detected.

	Allowable Levels	Highest Single Measurement	Lowest Monthly %	Violation	Likely Source
Turbidity (NTU) TT	No more than 1 NTU*
* Representative samples of filtered water	Less than 0.3 NTU in 95% of monthly samples	0.11	100	No	Soil runoff

Regulated Contaminant Test Results

Contaminant [code] (units)	MCL	MCLG	Report Level	Range of Detection	Date of Sample	Violation	Likely Source of Contamination
Radioactive Contaminants
Alpha emitters [4000] (pCi/L)	15	0	1.70	1.7 to 1.7	Oct-08	No	Erosion of natural deposits
Combined radium (pCi/L)	5	0	0.70	0.7 to 0.7	Oct-08	No	Erosion of natural deposits
Uranium (µg/L)	30	0	0.33	0.33 to 0.33	Oct-08	No	Erosion of natural deposits

Inorganic Contaminants

Barium [1010] (ppm)	2	2	0.020	0.02 to 0.02	Feb-13	No	Drilling wastes; metal refineries; erosion of natural deposits
Copper [1022] (ppm) sites exceeding action level 0	AL = 1.3	1.3	0.04 (90 th percentile)	0 to 0.06	Aug-13	No	Corrosion of household plumbing systems
Fluoride [1025] (ppm)	4	4	0.97	0.69 to 1.09	May 2013	No	Water additive which promotes strong teeth
Lead [1030] (ppb) sites exceeding action level 0	AL = 15	0	0 (90 th percentile)	0 to 7	Aug-13	No	Corrosion of household plumbing systems
Nitrate [1040] (ppm)	10	10	0.750	0.75 to 0.75	Nov-13	No	Fertilizer runoff; leaching from septic tanks, sewage; erosion of natural deposits

Disinfectants/Disinfection Byproducts and Precursors

Total Organic Carbon (ppm) (measured as ppm, but reported as a ratio)	TT*	N/A	2.53 (lowest average)	1.71 to 4.27 (monthly ratios)	N/A	No	Naturally present in environment.
*Monthly ratio is the % TOC removal achieved to the % TOC removal required. Annual average must be 1.00 or greater for compliance.
Chlorine (ppm)	MRDL = 4	MRDLG = 4	1.57 (highest average)	0.61 to 2.38	N/A	No	Water additive used to control microbes.
HAA (ppb) (all sites) [Haloacetic acids] less than 1 year of quarterly sampling	60	N/A	45 (system average)	9 to 91 (range of system sites)	N/A	No	Byproduct of drinking water disinfection
HAA (ppb) [Haloacetic acids] (Individual Sites)	60	N/A	16 (high site average)	56 to 66 (range of individual sites)	N/A	No	Byproduct of drinking water disinfection
THM (ppb) (all sites) [total trihalomethanes] less than 1 year of quarterly sampling	80	N/A	50 (system average)	14 to 86 (range of system sites)	N/A	No	Byproduct of drinking water disinfection.
THM (ppb) [total trihalomethanes] (Individual Sites)	80	N/A	17.325 (high site average)	58 to 69 (range of individual sites)	N/A	No	Byproduct of drinking water disinfection.

That's how many Kentucky adults read a daily, Sunday or weekly newspaper during an average week.

That's more than 5 out of 6 people.

And truth be told, we like to think that 6th person might be listening while one of the other five reads out loud.
